Attainity Selected As New Advisory Board Member With The Institute for Partner Education & Development

Appointment recognizes Attainity, LLC as an expert in small-business solutions and services.

San Clemente, CA, July 1, 2008 —Attainity has been selected to join the Partner Advisory Board of the Institute for Partner Education & Development (IPED). The board is made up of a select group of top leaders in the information technology solution provider community and only a few chosen new members are added each year.

With more than two decades of industry knowledge, IPED applies proven best practices to deliver customized recommendations for information technology solution providers.

IPED empowers information technology companies with education, intelligence and analysis to develop, deploy and execute channel strategies and programs that drive revenue. IPED content is based on two-decades of channel experience and more than 50,000 annual surveys of business partners and end customers.

Attainity was selected by IPED in recognition of its success in implementing cost effective technology solutions for small to medium sized businesses. As part of their board membership, Attainity will be sharing its expertise and assisting other information technology solution providers on effectively implementing cost effective solutions in the small to medium business sector.

Founded in 2003, Attainity, LLC is a full service information technology services and consulting firm located in San Clemente, CA.
